who we are

Money Management India is new b2b media & network portal for the Indian wealth & asset management industry.

MMI will publish

- articles and reports on the India growth story and the investment case for Indian asset classes
- interviews with leading investment professionals and other thought leaders
- dossiers on all types of investment funds

The founder, Hansi Mehrotra, brought Mercer's investment business to India in 2008 and then set up Hubbis in India in 2012. She has been blogging on LinkedIn, where she has been named TopVoice and PowerProfile a number of times, and now has ~290k followers.

She is now combining her research and publishing experience to launch this multi-media initiative.

what role is

The internship will be virtual over 1-3 months.

We will connect online every day to learn practical applications of investment research. You then work on their own for 2-4 hours a day. You present their work and peer review others' work.

The practical work includes -

- Research investment philosophy, style and process of leading firms in each asset class to prepare dossiers
- Synthesize detailed reports by industry and consulting firms; summarise key take-aways of content from leading professionals
- Summarise media interviews by asset management firms and ask further questions to help make investment selections
- Help interview investment professionals - pre and post
- Create audio-video content using editing software

who you are

The internship is open to freshers and anyone else who is genuinely interested in learning about investments. You are likely to be -

- CFA Institute, CAIA or Masters in Finance student
- Curious about asset classes/strategies and leading investors; read a few investment books outside of any curriculum
- Good communicator, especially through written medium
- Experimented with making audio-visual content using basic software such as iMovies
- Punctual, self-starter, disciplined
- Access to laptop, wi-fi, google software etc.
